You heard right!

The Fort Dodge Celebration of Champions Competition sponsored by the National Reined Cow Horse Association will be back in town for the second consecutive year! Beginning January 30th and continuing through February 7th, San Angelo will play host to this World Finals equine event. Here, you will be able to witness close to 500 strapping and sophisticated horses and their riders compete for the highly acclaimed title of "World's Greatest Horseman."

In 2009, this event took the equine world by storm with its ideal relocation to the 1st Community Credit Union Spur Arena. The one half-million dollar competition is publicized nationally, as well as being broadcasted on RFD television making San Angelo, Texas, the focal point of the equine world for 10 solid days. Last year, in an unprecedented feat, Russel Dilday and his horse, Topsnails Reinmaker claimed the prestigious title for the second consecutive year.

The Celebration of Champions will observe its 61st year in 2010 and we invite you to witness the action. Tickets are available for the finals weekend, February 5th-6th at $5.00 per day. Sunday's admission will be $10.00; however, a weekend pass is available for $12.00 through the Stock Show office which will admit you all three days!

For more detailed information regarding scheduling, check out our website at www.sanangelorodeo.com or visit www.nrcha.com.

Over 1,200 entries flooded in from all corners of the state for the 19th Annual Fall Spectacular Livestock Show held November 14 -15. Bringing in some of the top stock of the 2009 summer show season and ruthless competition were families from Amarillo to La Porte, Marfa to Nevada, TX. The purpose and benefits this show provides are exactly the principles this Association was founded on in helping exhibitors earn college scholarships through their projects to pursue higher education.
